TWO NAMED IN AUTO DEATHS

Today

False, Foolish Yarns.
How to Be Famous.
Faster Air Mail.
Standard Oil Abroad.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review.)

A SENATOR who should know better circulates a stupid, utterly false story to the effect that Herbert Hoover "took a drink" with Clarence Darrow, of Chicago. The story was as foolishly false as the other campaign yarn that described Governor Smith, intoxicated, speaking from his box at a state fair in Syracuse with two friends holding him up.

Fifty newspaper reporters knew that the story about Governor Smith was a lie, and, besides, he did not speak from his box.

EVERYBODY that has known Herbert Hoover or dined at his house during years past, knows that he is a total abstainer, and, unlike many other public officials, allows no alcohol on his table or in his house.

MRS. HOOVER wisely announces his determination not to answer foolish gossip and slander.

A wise candidate tells voters what he proposes to do, if elected, and lets other candidates tell their own stories in their own way.

THERE are many ways of making the world talk about you.

One philosopher jumped into the crater of Vesuvius.

A slave, that his name might be remembered, burned the Temple of Diana at Ephesus.

DISRAELI wore waistcoats of scarlet and gold, and curled his hair in beautiful black ringlets in the House of Commons, and Miss Sophia Curtis gave a dinner party for her favorite horse, named "Surprise."

The horse was brought to the table; many well-known stage folk attended and ate while the horse ate. That happened twenty years ago, but now that Miss Curtis dies, aged sixty-five, every newspaper will mention it.

THANK heaven, the president and Postmaster-General New, the post office at least encourages flying in earnest.

In the post office, flying is treated as a separate important enterprise, not tacked on to post office trains and trucks as a "minor auxiliary."

HARRY satisfied with excellent air mail service, the post office plans to increase mail plane speed thirty-five miles an hour, making the trip between the Atlantic and the Pacific in twenty-four hours, cutting off one day.

That is progress.

THE Standard Oil of New Jersey and the great German dye trust are said to have formed an alliance, a sort of mutual aid combination.

Germany eclipses all nations in manufacture of dyestuffs. Standard Oil has raw material, Germany has organization and distribution.

Magnificent staff.

Especially Walter C. Eagle, president of Standard Oil of New Jersey, on his recent trip to Europe, was not shooting grouse all the time.

THE American Railway association delegates, representing ownership of all trolley lines, inspect plans in Cleveland for a "robot" or mechanical street car conductor.

Westinghouse and General Electric, competing in manufacture of automatic machinery, will produce substitutes for all work purely mechanical. The human race is not destined to go through the centuries with a few enjoying freedom, the others merely cogs in a machine.

NO mechanical conductor will ever help ladies off and on the car, or answer all the foolish questions.

But a "robot" conductor could call.

MINE STABLE BOSS IS SLAIN

Charles O. Eggan
Killed Near New Philadelphia.

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Sept. 27.—Investigation into the death of Charles Orlando Eggan, 30, stable boss at the Middle No. 4 mine, near here, was begun today, following the finding of his body in an empty stall.

It is believed that Eggan was shot in the back of the head.

The mine has been operating under a union contract.

Eggan's body was found about 5 a.m., by Jack Morgan, a fellow worker. It was at first believed that Eggan might have been killed when kicked by a mine mule or pony, but there were no animals in the stable when the body was found, the head in a pool of blood. A deep wound was discovered behind the left ear.

Physicians declared that Eggan had been dead about two hours when his body was discovered.

Eggan reported for duty today at 1 a.m., and between that hour and three cleared the stables of all animals, it is said.

Eggan was married and the father of a three-year-old son.

CHICAGO ROCKED BY BOMB BLAST

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—Powerful bomb blast rocked Chicago's West Side today.

One of the bombs, said by police to have been hurled by the famous "42" gang, wrecked the front of the Giacane Ice cream Manufacturing company. It was the second time within two weeks that the plant had been bombed.

The detonation was heard for several miles. Windows within a radius of three blocks were shattered.

Labor bombers were blamed by police for a second explosion that partially demolished a Northside laundry. Residents in the entire neighborhood were routed from bed by the terrific force of the blast.

G. O. P. PARTY OF PROSPERITY, HOOVER TELLS "FIRST VOTERS"

Maryland and Virginia Group Visit His Headquarters.

SEES NEW ERA
Dr. Work and Other Leaders Confer With Nominee.

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—America has entered a new era of national life in which youth must play an important role, Herbert Hoover declared in an address to a group of "first voters" from Maryland and Virginia who called upon him at his headquarters today.

He declared the Republican party had always been the party of action, prosperity and progress.

The Republican nominee spoke to the young men and women after a series of important and rather mysterious conferences with Dr. Hubert Work, national chairman, Franklin Fort, national secretary, Senator George W. Norris, eastern senator and Col. Horace Mann, southern manager. All four declined living discussions of the status of "the" Walker Willebrandt but shed light on their conference with Hoover.

"BUCK PASSING" HIT BY JURORS

Jefferson County Mayors, Justices and Police Rapped.

STEUBENVILLE, O., Sept. 27.—Reprimanding mayors, justices of the peace and police of Steubenville and other Jefferson county municipalities for "passing the buck," to the grand jury for political reasons in the investigation of criminal cases, the grand jury reported today and returned 71 true bills.

The grand jury referred to police as "know nothing," for their negligence in conducting investigations and lack of knowledge when questioned.

The jury returned an indictment against Joseph Tee, dry officer, for shooting with intent to kill Tony Soldani, 18, alleged liquor runner. It was charged that Soldani was shot in the back when he attempted to evade arrest.

Elmer Johnson, marshal at Adena, was indicted for shooting with intent to kill Felix Gore, 19, during a raid on an alleged dice game. A riot in which villagers stormed the jail followed the shooting, but charges against the six of the alleged rioters were ignored.

MANNING FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY

Funeral services for Arthur J. Manning, 38, World war veteran, who died in Oklahoma City, Okla., while enroute to New Mexico for the benefit of his health, were held this afternoon in his home, near Calcutta, in charge of the Rev. R. E. Pierce of Cameron, W. Va. Burial was made in Riverview cemetery.

Not only did he find no breakfast but there was no food in the icebox, Smith said.

"I asked Bessie if she had given all the food in the house to John Steele, her admirer, and when she began to give me impudence, I seized her by the throat and began choking her," said his confession. "I threw her on the bed and held her there until I knew she was dead."

KNITTING MILL HEAD KIDNAPED

Abduction is Latest Flareup in Kenosha, Wis., Strike.

KENOSHA, Wis., Sept. 27.—Posses of county officers are today searching for Harold Henderson, employee of the Allen-A-Knitting mills here who was kidnaped by four masked and armed men.

The kidnaping was the latest flareup against employees of the knitting company during the six months of labor trouble.

There have been many slippings, bombings of homes of those who took the places of strikers and rioting about the mill.

Henderson was riding on a sequestered road six miles from Kenosha with his two sisters when an automobile drew up. At the point of a gun Henderson was halted, struck over the head, then forced into the rear seat of the car which sped away.

GOV. AL SMITH ON HIS WAY TO ST. PAUL

Democrat to Deliver Fifth Major Speech Tonight.

NORTHWEST TOUR

Plans to Outline Views on Transportation Problems.

By George R. Holmes.

DETROIT LAKES, Minn., Entombed with Governor Smith in Minnesota, Sept. 27.—Leaving North Dakota and its baffling cross-currents of political insurgency, Governor Smith swung over into Minnesota today, another northwestern state upon which his managers have been casting covetous eyes.

Tonight in St. Paul the Democratic nominee will deliver the fifth major speech of his western trip. It probably will be devoted to transportation problems, a subject in which the agricultural northwest is keenly interested.

Minnesota, a normally Republican state, presents mountainous difficulties to the Democrats this year but Governor Smith entered the state today with confidence that he will be able to so appeal to the old La Follette insurgent following as to give him at least "a good fighting chance" to carry the state's 12 electoral votes in November.

Bids for Minnesota.

The fact that no Democratic candidate for the presidency since reconstruction days has ever carried Minnesota has not discouraged him. The closest any Democrat ever came to carrying the state for president was in the memorable election of 1916, when Woodrow Wilson came within 393 votes of it in an election that polled 358,696 votes.

Even in 1912, the year of the great split the Democrats could not carry it. Four years ago, President Coolidge won the state by a majority of 25,651 over both La Follette and Davis.

Notwithstanding this record, the Smith managers this year are hopeful. Their confidence is based largely on the assurances of old La Follette leaders that most of the independent vote of 1924 will go for Smith, and upon other widely varying factors local to the situation in Minnesota. They are counting upon the present low price of wheat, for one thing, and for another upon the fact that some of the most influential farm leaders of the state are against Hoover.

Magnus Johnson Campaigns. Magnus Johnson, the first Farmer-Labor representative in the senate, for example, has come out for Smith and is campaigning the state for him.

No matter what you have tried for your stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. Carnahan Drug Co. and other drugists.

Senator Hendrik Shipstead, the Farmer-Labor senator who defeated Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, and is now running for re-election, is remaining silent on the presidential contest. But Shipstead's friends are working openly for Smith.

Minnesota also has a gubernatorial election this year, with Governor Theodore Christiansen, Republican candidate, to succeed himself. Christiansen was for Lowden in the pre-convention contest, and Hoover's victory at Kansas City is said to have left many sore spots among the regular Republicans.

It is upon a foundation containing these and similar factors that Democratic hopes and confidence are based. The sixth of November will provide the answer. Meanwhile the battle waxes hot.

HASKIN DAILY LETTER

By Frederick J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 27.—A general realignment of state boundaries, including the creation of new states and, perhaps, the disappearance of some is a possibility. Whether or not the consolidations would equal the divisions is uncertain but any such plan would be more likely to add stars to the blue field of the American flag and members to the United States senate.

No nation grows according to preconceived plan. At one time in the early history of America, Charleston, S. C., was as important a port as New York City and even Alexandria, Va., was nearly so. Yorktown, Va., now a town of only 500 inhabitants, was an important port of entry. Benjamin Franklin, in his autobiography, tells of a contemporary of his who refused to buy a dwelling and instead rented a house or lodgings because of his firm conviction, lasting throughout his life, that Philadelphia could not possibly increase in size but would dwindle away and investors in real estate would lose. It must be remembered that these cities were in existence under the British crown for about the same length of time they have been under the American flag and yet the new republic was several decades old before it became a certainty that New York was to be the metropolis of the Western World.

It took more than two centuries for New York to reach an undisputed place in the front rank of American cities. It is possible that, with the development of air transportation, some other city, Chicago, perhaps, or St. Louis, might yet outdistance her.

So state lines laid down generations ago do not fit as well now as they did originally and there is occasional agitation for drastic changes. That other people in the world besides Americans are interested is revealed by the fact that the proposal to make New York City and its environs a separate state was the subject of a paper read before a recent meeting of the British Association for the advancement of science.

The erection of New York into a new state would be the most important of state line changes. The idea is by no means new. Fernando Wood, elected mayor of New York City in 1861, in the course of his inaugural address, declared his belief that the city should be separated from the state of New York or, perhaps, even from the United States itself, becoming a free city under no sovereignty save its own as were the famous free cities of Europe in earlier times.

Louis A. Cavillier, a New York City member of the New York legislature, introduced a bill to separate the city in 1908. Such a bill has been introduced every year since. James A. Walker, present mayor of New York, voted for such a measure when a member of the assembly.

The reasons are both political and economic. New York City is Democratic and because of its huge population often elects a Democratic governor and state officers. The rest of the state is normally Republican, usually returning a Republican legislature. This means a certain amount of disharmony. New York City pays an enormous proportion of the total tax bill of the state and citizens of the metropolis pay for improvements, roads, public works, and the like, in other parts of the state which they never use or even see.

The present proposal is to create a metropolitan district. Maps have been drawn of the proposed new state, population estimated, and a vast amount of economic data assembled by associations and public men interested in the project. Jersey City, now directly connected with New York by the vehicular tunnels, together with adjacent counties in New Jersey, all thickly populated, is included. Westchester county, N. Y., Fairfield county, Conn., and Long Island also would be included in the new state. It would have an area of about 3700 square miles and a population exceeding ten million. It would be more populous than the whole Dominion of Canada.

A similar suggestion has been made in respect to St. Louis and its environs. It, too, is a great port and commercial center. In fact, St. Louis manufacturers and other business men, in their national advertising, already use the slogan, The Forty-ninth State.

Chicago has been proposed as another new state.

Here, again, is a case in which there is a great metropolis paying a large share of the taxes of the state within which it lies. It is a lake port and by way of the Welland canal, a seaport. It is the greatest railway center in the country. It is often of different political complexion from the remainder of the state.

Contributions of the several European races to the making of America have long been recognized. They have enriched the background of the United States with a variety of cultural traditions.

But there are in the United States today many millions of mixed descent, just as there were in England in Defoe's day. To them the theory of racial separateness presents a problem in readjustments. To which European national tradition does an American of mixed Irish and English, or German and French parentage owe special allegiance? Why should one have a greater claim than the other?

Frankly, we don't know.

Race Mixture

Revival of the so-called Nordic straw-man by Dr. Abraham Flexner, only to be promptly knocked out in the first round, as has so often been its fate in recent years, is interesting in that it touches again the disputed topic of race mixture.

It has been at least 200 years since one Daniel Defoe satirized the prevalent idea that the English were a "pure blooded" race. To be sure, he did not, as did Dr. Flexner recently, suggest that the various strains could do well to cling to their separate traditions. But he did point out that the average Englishman was descended from a mixture of stocks, and that his contempt for foreigners was a form of provincialism.

New Jersey's Traffic Law

Ignorance of the law excuses no one; but if motorists were to know all of the laws and regulations relative to travel, differing as they do in every community, they should have no time left to do anything else.

Now comes New Jersey with a move in the right direction—a state traffic law that supersedes the restrictions of all local municipalities. A new New Jerseyan will soon know what is what in each part of his own state at least.

New Jersey has made no wild jump into hasty legislation. For three years a commission has been studying the problems of traffic, and while doubtless a perfect law may not be the result at first, a new milestone has been passed in the matter of promoting legal and therefore safer driving.

Among other provisions of the law the one requiring uniform traffic lights will doubtless save many lives. Uniform rules for right and left turns will greatly reduce casualties among pedestrians. Prohibition against jaywalking and hitch-hiking will help to remove these public nuisances.

Looking For Trouble

A social worker relates the story of a couple on the verge of divorce from a fight of nineteen months over a college for their boy. The man wanted Oxford, and said much about idle and vicious college men hereabouts. The woman was loyal to America.

"How old is he?" asked the worker. "Need you settle this immediately?" The young man was nineteen months old.

Absurd enough. But many a family goes as far afield in looking for trouble. And trouble is one of those things that can always be found.

The man who made a jealous fuss because the husband of his wife's friend took her home in his car instead of letting her come on the trolley, was just as foolish. This trifling, magnified by dispute, was referred to an outsider. "Had the gentleman not brought your wife home you might have had cause for reproach," said the outsider. "Why shouldn't he be courteous and she enjoy a half hour's ride?" It became nothing.

"I left my job at the hospital," said the nurse, "because my assistant was going on a month's vacation and they would not promise me any relief." Undoubtedly she had been overworked, and the prospect of a month still harder was none too easy to contemplate. Yet had she stuck it out, doubtless in a few days relief would have been forthcoming.

Hunting trouble is always foolish, and it is never wise to make serious decisions in a hurry. When September's breezes blow away the megrims, the proud parents may remember that Cecil Rhodes provided for such a case as theirs. Their boy may go to Yale and Oxford both if they work toward it unitedly. When it's cool, the jealous husband may realize that sewing with a friend, remaining to dinner the night her husband had to work, being brought home by friend's husband, who was doubtless bored to death to have to take the car out again, is not exactly a capital crime. He may even laugh at the idea. When it's cool and the nurse gets another job, she will probably keep it and work like a nailer, with never a grouch.

Most of us have some sort of real trouble to wrestle with. Why hunt imaginary ones?

Now let men dig deep into the earth as they have wanted to do, and we'll learn a lot more useful things.

Getting Out The Vote

In keeping with the suggestion made by John Hays Hammond, chairman of the National Civic Federation, East Liverpool post No. 4, American Legion, will cooperate with other Ceramic City organizations in urging their respective members to go to the polls on Tuesday, Nov. 6, when national, state, district and county officials will be elected.

Notwithstanding evidence that the citizens of the nation are taking an active interest in the presidential campaign, as well as the fight for state government places, hundreds of electors here and thousands elsewhere shall fail to exercise their right and duty on election day if the experience of bygone elections is any criterion.

In order to qualify for the franchise in East Liverpool, voters must register quadrennially. Next Thursday, one week from today, is the first enrollment day. From 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. and 5 to 10 p. m. registrars will be on duty in the city's 23 precincts.

No man or woman should be "too busy" or too apathetic to qualify. And the wise elector will not defer the formality beyond the first day, although Oct. 11, 19 and 20 also are registration days.

Don't forget to register.

An Ounce of Prevention Is Worth A Pound of Cure.

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland.

We are always glad when the new apples come to market. I am reminded of this because just before beginning to write today, I came from the orchard, eating a delicious apple, one of the first of the season. By the time this article is printed the markets will be glutted with a hundred varieties of the delicious fruit.

The apple is good for health. I don't care how you take it, whether cooked or raw. It possesses certain food substances which promote the physical welfare.

It isn't enough for our food merely to "nourish" us, or simply to satisfy the appetite. Our meals are not sufficient or well chosen unless they provide the minerals required by the various tissues, the vitamins essential to health and energy, the acids which have certain stimulating effects.

The apple carries substances and properties which are of peculiar value to the body. Please bear that in mind as you make your purchases.

It is a wonder to me that apple sauce isn't so popular as it was in old times when fruits were not brought from every part of the world. But of course there is an appeal in these rarer fruits. That is natural, but let us not forget the tried old friend, the apple.

Last year I was interested in studying the report of a food marketing research organization. This council made a survey of the fate of apples reaching the New York market.

I am not sure as to how my conclusions were reached, but here are some of them:

More apples are eaten in high-salaried families than by any other class.

The same group is said to lead in the consumption of baked apples and salads and is not fond of pies or raw apples.

It is stated that the Italians lead in the consumption of raw fruit. Seventy-two per cent of them eat them uncooked. "The Jewish people are the most selective in their apple buying," the report says.

It is not enough to eat meat and potatoes, bread and butter. There must be variety in the eating. No meal is complete without fresh fruit and vegetables.

To all such let me command the apple. It can be eaten as a fresh fruit, made into pudding or apple sauce, or included in the ingredients of a fruit salad. Few articles of food are capable of being served in such a variety of ways.

No matter how you take it, the apple is good for health. To eat this fruit will help you to have good health and vigor.

Gas in Stomach Hurts the Heart

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion.

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable but some day it may prove fatal.

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid conditions of your stomach is producing a GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly drive out gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisulcated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief.

Mathews Med. Store, or any good druggist can supply Bisulcated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form.

"They've really built a PAVEMENT this time"

And they have, too. Brick.

Previously, there had been costly pavement failures . . . public interest had become aroused . . . people approved building roads and streets—but those roads and streets must last.

"Does it pay to be penny-wise in construction cost and pound-foolish with maintenance," was asked.

So the community studied pavements impartially as a banker studies an investment. It considered past and present performance of all pavements—riding comfort—the effect of weather—increasing traffic—appearance. And brick streets were chosen.

Brick pavement as built today is smooth-riding; safe; easy on the eyes. Densest, toughest road surface, it resists both weather and traffic punishment. Thus it lasts over 20 years with few repairs. Driver, Fearing Attempt to Rob Him, Fails to Stop.

LORAIN, O., Sept. 27.—Miss Betty Heywood, 22, of Elyria, was in St. Joseph's hospital here today with a bullet wound in her neck, while three prohibition officers were in city prison, held for investigation.

The officers, Walter Knitter and Louis Cicco, of the police prohibition squad, and Frank Kledy, a deputy sheriff, were stationed near the city limits here last night to watch for an automobile loaded with liquor, which police had been "tipped" was to arrive some time during the night.

Shortly before midnight, an automobile driven by Charles Edward and occupied by his wife, their baby, and Miss Heywood and her father, Richard Heywood, came into the city. The prohibition officers demanded that the car stop. Edward said he was about to comply when his wife advised that he drive away, since she feared robbery.

Accordingly, Edward sped his machine. A shot was fired from behind, piercing the rear curtain and striking Miss Heywood. Kledy was the only one of the three officers who would make a statement today. He said that Cicco fired the shot.

Though Miss Heywood's wound is regarded as serious, she will probably recover, physicians said.

LIVING MODELS AT NEWMAN'S

Feature Fall Modes in Opening of Fashion Expo.

Marking an innovation in city fashion displays, Newman's last night exhibited authentic fall modes as one of the feature events on the opening night of East Liverpool's annual fall and winter fashion exposition.

Two models in the windows, at an appointed hour, "came to life" to pirouette to the accompaniment of feminine "ah's," one of them wearing an evening creation of gold imported metallic cloth and lace, inspired by the French designer Patou. The other charmed in a model fashioned of flesh and orchid taffeta and tulle, bearing the stamp of Vionnet. Frocks, coats and hats were shown as they might have come from the famous shops of Vionnet, Patou, Le Long, Bernard, Goupy, Worth, Jane Regny, Bertha and Lebouvier.

The models displayed during the style show were divided into eight individual groups, the first showing the sport frocks in autumn fabrics and colors, the second featuring the black satin and new crepe materials of jolle and frost crepe in street and afternoon frocks, followed by another group of autumn frocks in the new woodland shades, and a showing of the new blue shades in afternoon frocks.

The next group combined street, afternoon and dinner gowns fashioned from transparent velvets, and then a showing was made of the printed transparent velvets and imported metallics. Another group was comprised of chiffon and lace combinations for dinner and theatre, leading up to the close of the showing which consisted of dance and party frocks for all evening occasions, each group of frocks being announced by page before being displayed by the models.

The fall and winter display will continue today, Friday and Saturday, when all the garments shown in the style show last night, may be seen together with other models for the season.

TRAINMEN HEAR MYERS Y. COOPER

COLUMBUS, Sept. 27.—"Some of the proposals which, several years ago, were regarded as revolutionary, including the number of hours of labor, working conditions and a compensating wage, are now accepted as being just and reasonable," declared Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, Republican gubernatorial candidate, addressing a session of the legislative committee, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, here today.

Cooper declared that, if elected governor, he would never consent to the repeal of the so-called "full crew" law relative to operating trains.

"For 23 years, I have employed union labor, but never in that period did I have a strike, a lockout or a labor dispute," said Cooper. "I, therefore, can testify from wide experience that the spirit of fair play is the road to harmony and mutual benefit."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Wednesday's closing reaction in the industrial stocks was carried into the early trading today and prices in the first hour were generally lower. Though professionals short selling was held responsible for the bulk of the selling pressure in this period, Wall Street believes that many of the pools heavily loaded up with stocks, are seeking opportunities to unload a good share of their burdens at current prices.

Little account was taken of the fact that freight car loadings for the week of September 15, as reported to day by the A. R. A. aggregated 1,138,312, a new high level for the year.

This is ample testimony to the high volume of domestic business passing over the rails at this time and corroborates the favorable surveys of the steel, motor car, copper and other important industries issued earlier in the week.

That the stock market is due for a "technic reaction" was the almost unanimous viewpoint to the stock experts in Wall Street as trading began. Nervousness over the money situation was another factor to be reckoned with, though the renewal call loan rate was posted at 6½ per cent.

Losses of a point or two were recorded in number of the active motor, steel, copper, oil and specialty stocks, most of which have been prominent ground gainers in recent weeks. On the whole, the market absorbed offerings in good style, slowing down as usual under selling pressure, and forging ahead moderately where special "support" was extended.

HOLMES GOES ON TRIAL FOR P. O. ROBBERY

Toledoan Faces Jury in U. S. Court for Lorain Job.

44 TO TESTIFY

Securities Valued at $50,000 Were Taken.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27.—With the courtroom crowded, Harry P. "Sheriff" Holmes, Toledo, alleged to have been one of four men who on the night of Feb. 28, 1925, robbed the Lorain post office of securities with a total value of $50,000, went on trial in federal court here today. Forty-four witnesses have been called by the state.

Federal Judge John M. Killits, Toledo, speeded the selection of a jury and the box was filled two hours after the trial started.

The trial will last about a week, according to present indications. D. C. Vanburen, assistant U. S. district attorney is prosecuting the case.

Prison Warden Called.

Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio penitentiary at Columbus, was in the court room this morning. It could not be learned whether he is to appear on the witness stand. Joseph McConnell, one of the four men accused of the robbery, is now serving a term in the Ohio penitentiary.

The other two members of the quartet are also accounted for. James "Seats" Burke is serving a 25-year sentence in Atlanta penitentiary for the robbery. Jack Perr, Lorain, was killed in an automobile accident at Helena, O., near Tiffin, on the morning following the robbery.

Tiffin Accident Gave Clue.

The accident at Tiffin gave authorities their first clue to the identity of the robbers. Revolvers, gags and masks were found in the wrecked machine. Perr died in the Tiffin hospital.

Postmaster Joseph Jamieson, Lorain, was to take the witness stand today and tell of the robbery, in which P. C. Robinson, the watchman, was bound and gagged and the postoffice vaults looted of $10,000 in stamps, $100 in currency and registered mail estimated to have been worth $40,000.

Witnesses of the Helena automobile crash are to be introduced by the state in an attempt to identify Holmes as an occupant of the car.

Eczema Caused Years of Intense Agony

"I have suffered intense agony from eczema on my leg and other parts of my body for years, and received only temporary relief from other preparations. It is only a month since I started to use Peterson's Ointment, and there is no sign of eczema or itching. You can refer to me." —Geo. C. Talbot, Buffalo.

"I've got a hundred testimonies," says Peterson of Buffalo, just as sincere and honest as this one. Years ago, when I first started to put out Peterson's Ointment, I made up my mind to give a generous box for 33 cents, and I am still doing it, as every druggist in the country knows.

"I guarantee Peterson's Ointment because I know that its mighty healing power is marvelous. I say to every one who buys a box that it is rightly guaranteed for eczema, old sores, ulcers, skin diseases, chafing, burns, scalds and sunburn, and if not satisfactory your money will be returned."

Warns Women to Check High Blood Pressure

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in danger of high blood pressure. It is caused by poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system or the weakening of one or more organs. This forces the heart to do more work and raises blood pressure.

The symptoms are dizziness, shortness of breath, head pains, flushed face, nervousness or sleeplessness. High blood pressure must be treated at once for everyone knows it is too dangerous and quick acting to disregard its symptoms.

Norma is a doctor's prescription for high blood pressure that has been used with great success.

Norma contains no habit-forming drugs, and works in such a way that it lessens the duty of the over-taxed heart and reduces blood pressure swiftly and surely. Often one bottle brings great relief. Get a bottle of Norma today from any drug store, and free yourself from the symptoms of blood pressure.

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Large and Red. Covered Face. Cuticura Healed.

"My face was covered with pimples and blackheads. The pimples were large and red, and itched and burned terribly. The irritation kept me awake many nights. My hands also were very sore and I could not put them in water."

"I used many different remedies but they did not help me. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in a short time could see an improvement. I continued the treatment and in three months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Anna Uxa, 3147 So. Canal St. Chicago, Ill.

GIRL ON TRIAL IN AUTO TRADE

Mother Files Charge Against Miss Elizabeth Chunk.

BEAVER, Pa., Sept. 27.—Elizabeth Chunk, College Hill, is on trial in court today before Judge William A. McConnell on a charge of larceny by bailee.

The case is prosecuted by her mother, Elizabeth Chunk.

The defendant is accused of trading her mother's automobile in on a new one, while the former was in Europe in 1927. Mrs. Chunk claims the title for her old car was in a safety deposit box at the Federal Title and Trust company bank in Beaver Falls. The title, she said, was in her name, but the title for the new car was in her daughter's name.

Attorney Philip H. Stevenson represents the Commonwealth in the prosecution, and Attorney Everett Calvin is counsel for the defendant.

William Schaffer, Aliquippa, filed suit for $10,000 against A. John Azor, Aliquippa, yesterday. Schaffer claims he was run down and badly injured by an automobile driven by Azor in Hopewell avenue, Aliquippa, June 13.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

All drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Get the larger size. It is more economical.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"S.S.S. cleared my skin of pimples and blackheads. I think it is most wonderful blood medicine. Several of my friends are taking it for the same reason I did." —Miss Margaret Frye, Lapel, Ind.

SENATOR BORAH
'SPOKEMAN' FOR
G. O. P. NOMINEE

Idahoan Becomes Hoover's "Right Hand Man."

EXTENDS TOUR

Plans to Conduct Major Campaign in East.

BY WM. K. HUTCHINSON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—After spending four presidential campaigns on the sidelines, Senator William E. Borah, the "lone wolf" of the senate, has assumed so important a role in the drive to elect Herbert Hoover president that he has become the Republican nominee's "right hand man," it was learned today at Hoover headquarters.

The nominee and senator have established such intimate political relations, it was said, that Borah has the right to be called "Hoover's spokesman," if that title goes to any one. Hoover was reported so pleased with Borah's speaking activities that he personally asked the senator to extend them in the mid-west and to conduct a major tour of the east.

"Big Gun" in Closing Drive.

If Hoover has his way, it was said, Borah will be the Republican party's "big gun" in the closing drive to win the industrial east. At Hoover's personal request, it was added, Borah will be scheduled for at least 20 major speeches in the large cities of New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey before the campaign ends. If this is carried out, Borah probably will close the campaign in New York City. A choice spot heretofore reserved for Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican standard-bearer of 1916,

One report to Hoover went so far as to say that Borah's speeches in the wake of Governor Alfred E. Smith's invasion of the farm belt, have completely offset the Democratic nominee's gains and reassured Hoover that he would carry the grain belt in November.

Will Confer With Nominees.
Borah has completed a tour of Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Missouri. He was to close his present tour with a speech Monday night at Minneapolis, but under the new plans he probably will extend his trip for another 10 days.

When his midwestern tour is completed, Borah will come back to Washington for a personal conference with Hoover. This conference was asked by the Republican nominee, revealing that he has been relying somewhat on the Idaho senator's political advice. This will be a new role for Borah, as his advice was completely ignored by President Taft. Candidate Hughes and Presidents Harding and Coolidge in their campaigns. In 1912, Borah supported former President Roosevelt for the nomination and when Taft won, he retired to the sidelines. Thus, although always in the public eye, Borah has entered a commanding role in a presidential campaign for the first time in two decades.

Hights Polish Up Offensive Plays For Clash With Holy Name

Play Strong Cleveland Outfit in Home Opener

Hurst Puts Blue and White Squads Through Hour's Scrimmage Drill; Will Work on Forward Passes Tonight.

With a majority of the cripples rapidly checking off the hospital list and the squad in general getting back on its feet again after the ordeal at Canton last Saturday, practice sessions for the Cleveland Holy Name game here Saturday are gathering momentum and spirit.

The clash with the Clevelander, to keep them out of the lineup until at least the following week.

Not that they won't be needed, that's not the chief idea, for the local mentor figures he'll need everything he's got in the way of material and ability if the Blue and White is to cope successfully with the Cleveland combine which Saturday started its 1928 campaign by playing West High of Cleveland to a scoreless stand-off.

This performance on the part of the Holy Name eleven indicates its strength without any further elaboration. Both Holy Name and West are rated very highly in Cleveland scholastic grid circles this fall, according to reports.

SEEKING PUNCH IN BLUE OFFENSIVE *

HURST last night worked two squads the better part of an hour in scrimmaging, striving chiefly to develop a more potent offensive punch, especially the ability to drive through for one, two or three yards in a tight place.

A team's capabilities in this direction often decide the issue, especially where two evenly matched squads are battling. One of them, for instance, needs just a couple of yards for a first down in scoring territory. The opposition logically tightens. If the punch is there to overcome the two-yard deficit, this little item quite frequently turns the tide of battle.

Clark is recovering rapidly from an injured ankle. Mills and Dalrymple, who are running gear also needed some adjustment, are in pretty fair condition and Mackall, is too, overcoming the effects of a rather stiff hammering at Canton.

Felt last night was shifted from end to halfback and his performance may warrant his starting at the position Saturday. Mackall, Chetwyn and Mills were the three other members of the ball tooting quartet that worked in varsity garb.

Harry McConville worked well at a flank position with the veteran Bobby Witherow on the other. Athars was at center with McCoy and Walters on the guards and Dalrymple and Clark on the tackles. Dickey, a guard, probably will see action against Holy Name Saturday.

END WORKOUTS WITH DEFENSE DRILL

FORWARD pass possibilities will likely be stressed by Hurst in the workout this afternoon.

This weapon in the past has proved an effective one in the hands of the Potters and should work equally as well this fall with Witherow as the principal receiver. Witherow is probably one of the most consistent, day-in-day-out workers on the outfit and is a valuable asset on both offense and defense.

Young McConville appears to have all that's necessary and may have ample opportunity this fall to show his wares. He got into a number of games last fall, his first year of varsity ball. He has availed himself and gameness and his ability should develop.

Defense tactics will be worked out in final preparation for the Cleveland engagement.

Tickets for the Saturday game will be placed on sale this afternoon at Smith News and Helmies. By this plan Faculty Manager Decker hopes to eliminate congestion at the gates at Patterson Field, for there will be gates from now on and duly accredited credentials must be presented before admittance to the ground.

Sale also will be conducted at the West Eighth street booth, now in process of construction, where students, who formerly bought their pasteboards at school, may also obtain tickets from now on.

Bobcat Coach Has Stiff Job Filling Gaps

Graduation Ineligibility Hit Ohio U., Ranks.

ATHENS, O., Sept. 26.—An athletic coach's chief troubles, ineligibility and graduation, are giving Don Peden, Ohio university head football mentor, plenty to worry about for the Bobcats' coming gridiron season, which opens September 29 with Dio Grande college. Some spirited sessions are in store for his 35 prospective squad members in pre-season practice which opened this week.

Two strong wingmen, Jarvie and Shafer, who were bulwarks on the line last year, have graduated. The job of filling the gaps left by their graduation has been made doubly difficult for Paden, because of Don Bell, a squad member for the past two years, and an almost certain prospect for end this year, sustained a leg injury this summer, which, it is feared, will prevent his playing. The graduation of Shattuck, tackle, also leaves another hole to be filled. As a result of these losses, a shift in the entire Bobcat line may be necessary, Paden indicated to-day.

Among the bitter pills Peden has been forced to swallow through ineligibility have been the loss of Berry, an outstanding tackle last year, and Danco, last year's All-Ohio guard, whose presence on the line would have bolstered the Ohio eleven immensely.

Eight veterans have returned, however, to the Bobcat fold to aid Peden in his efforts for a game winning eleven this fall. Among these is a quartet of experienced linemen: Mowbray, a splendid defensive man for the pivot position; Begola and Farmer, guards; and Taraschke, tackle. In the backfield the following men are on

Swetonic Wins Opening Clash At Rochester

Beats Red Wings, 3 to 2, in 11-inning Scuffle.

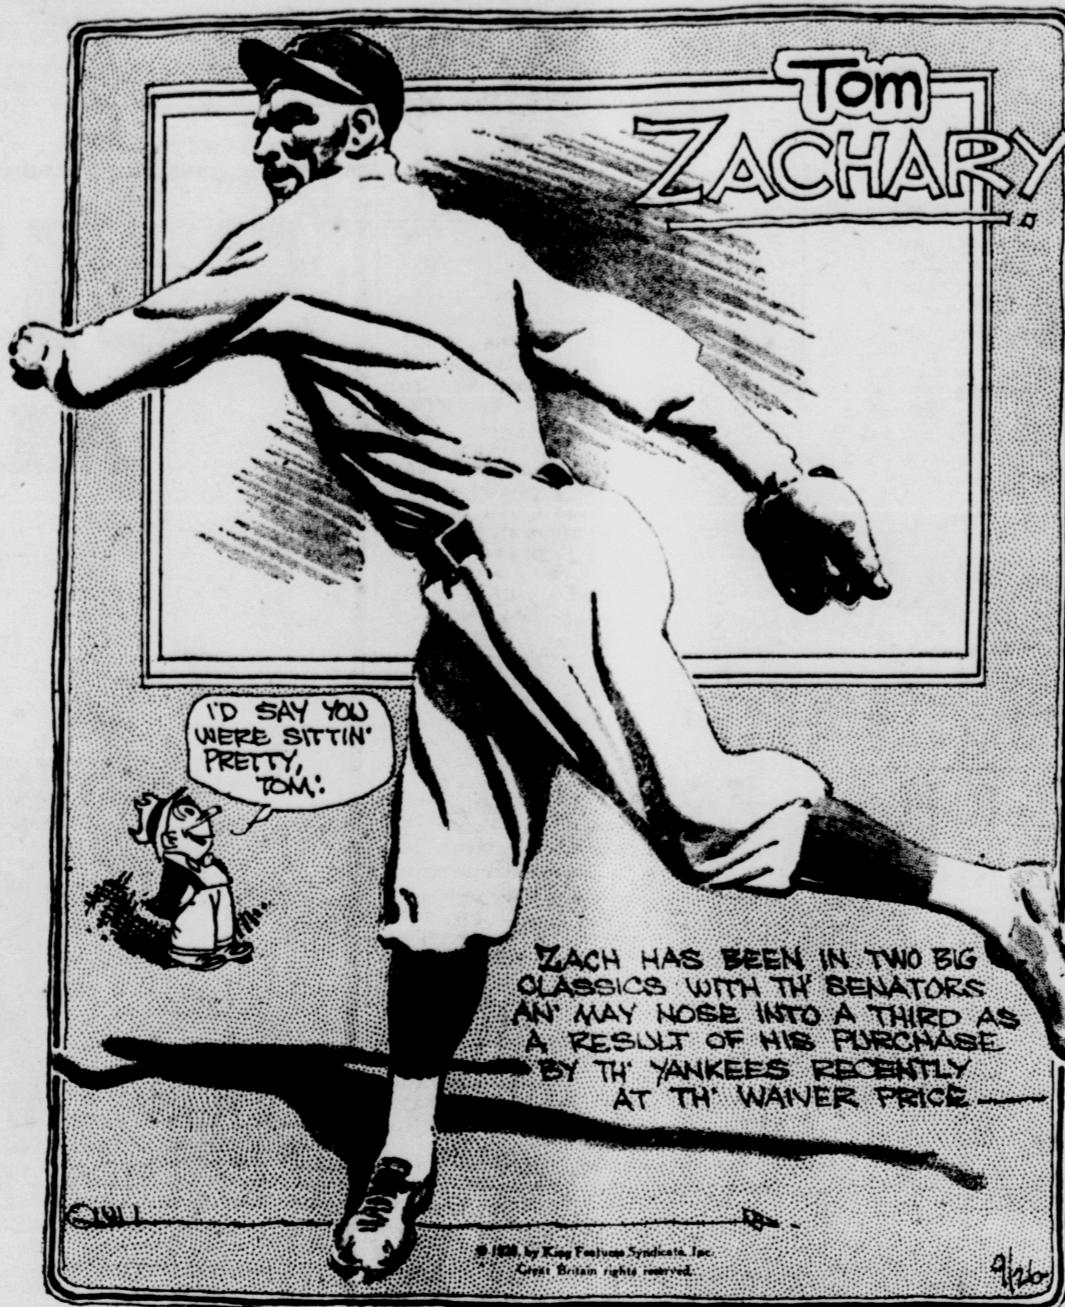

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Far from downhearted by their 3 to 2 defeat yesterday at the hands of Indianapolis in the first game of the little world series, Billy Southworth and his Rochester Red Wings fought today that, having forced Indianapolis' best pitcher, Steven Swetonic, to 11 innings, they won't have so much trouble with others to come.

Yesterday's crowd was disappointing on account of cold weather that brought out the heaviest winter overcoats and furs and blankets.

Today's weather was due to remain cold, according to the weather man, but it was slightly warmer.

Although 891,332 more tickets were issued on the street cars of Glasgow, Scotland, from July 1 to August 20, the revenue decreased by $12,560, due to the popularity of lower-rate tickets.

TOWARD ANOTHER WORLD'S SERIES?

If Yanks Cop Two, Macks Lose, It'll be All Over

But Connie Doesn't Expect to Lose; Counts on Bob Grove; and Crippled Champs are no Cinch for Double Win.

By LES CONKLIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—If the Athletics lose to the White Sox in Chicago today and the Yankees capture both ends of their double bill at Detroit, New York fandom tonight will celebrate the winning of the Yank's third consecutive pennant.

Should these events come to pass, the Yanks could afford to lose the remaining three games at Detroit while the Athletics won their last three games with the White Sox with the final standing as follows:

Team Won Lost Pet.
New York 99 55 .643
Philadelphia 98 55 .640

But the crippled champions are no cinch to win both games today, and Connie Mack has no intention of losing to the White Sox. He plans to send Bob Grove to the mound today and may pitch the star southpaw again during the series. New York's two-game lead, however, looms as a terrific obstacle for the A's to overcome.

Both contenders are sure to meet with tough opposition. The White Sox trimmed the Yanks twice last week and the Tigers stopped the Macks twice.

Of course Hug would like to get it over with as soon as possible to give his crippled players a chance to rest before the start of the world series. With Ruth and Lazzeri badly hurt, Koenig nursing a sore foot, Pennock incapacitated by neuritis, and the other pitchers overworked, the Huggins outfit is but a shadow of the mighty machine that gave the Cardinals such a hard battle two years ago and crushed the Pirates last fall.

Huggins plans to send Hoyt and Heimach to the mound this afternoon. The selections for the following games will be Piggras, Zachary and Hoyt again.

Our experience proves that most men who try Palmolive Shaving Cream become regular users. Thus our whole sales problem is to get every man we can to TRY IT.

To solve that problem, we go to great lengths. We occasionally make an offer that no man can afford to turn down. This one, you'll agree, is the greatest we have ever made—the most remarkable, we are told, in merchandising history.

Go today to the drug store. Buy a tube of Palmolive Shaving Cream at the regular price of 35c. The razor described above will be given you with it FREE with blade—all for 35c.

We started by asking 1000 men what they most desired in a shaving soap. Then met their exactments one by one. It is different in formula, action and effect from any other shaving preparation known. It corrects the 5 mistakes of old-time shaving preparations.

1. It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.
2. It softens the beard in one minute.
3. The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.
4. The extra strong bubbles support the hairs for cutting, where weak bubbles let them fall down.
5. The blend of palm and olive oils brings fine after-effects.

Sunday's Game Between Cards, Giants May Decide Flag Race

McKechnie Margin Cut As Vance Cops 6-1 Tilt

Lead McGrawmen by Half-game With Four to go; Clash With Braves as Rivals Come to Grips With Cubs.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Half a game, half a game, half a game backward.

That isn't exactly the way Kipling wrote it; it simply is Bill McKechnie's idea today of how the greatest race the National League has known in 20 years might be reviewed by a critic who knows what it is to have to fight even for a defeat. His Cardinals, having clung grimly to a one-game lead over the Giants since Saturday night, finally faltered under the lash yesterday and lost to Dazzy Vance in Brooklyn, reducing their margin of safety to exactly a half game.

Wilcemen Face Test This Week

Must Show Stuff to Earn Jobs on O. S. U. Varsity.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 27.—Ohio State grididers were resting up today in preparation for a full practice game arranged by Coach Wilce, and it is expected that all candidates, with the exception of Howard Kris, Columbus halfback, will be healed and ready to be back for more.

Practice in punting, open field running and tackling were included in the workout at the morning and afternoon sessions yesterday.

Definite selection of several candidates to fill berths on the 1928 eleven is expected to be made by Coach Wilce this week end. The selection will result from a regulation game between the "Red" eleven which constitutes the temporary varsity and the "White" squad which contains other outstanding aspirants for first string positions.

The game will be played on the Buckeye practice field Saturday afternoon. It will be played under regular game conditions with full time quarters if the weather permits. Following the practice game Saturday the workouts will be confined to one session a day, according to the Western Conference regulations. Practice

Godfrey Seeks Speed in His 1928 Machine

Lutheran Backs Will Average Around 150 Pounds.

SPRINGFIELD, O., Sept. 27.—Coach E. R. Godfrey, is preparing his men for a great season in 1928 has material that begins to look like two things for Wittenberg this season: a great, bulky-hard-charging line, and a fleet backfield. If he cared to favor weight in choosing an eleven from his 41 men, he can put in five men from tackle to tackle who weigh 200 pounds and over. Flanking captain and center, Robert Miller of Dover who weighs 200, would be Charles Libby of Attrim, N. H., at 215, and John Pettit of Elkhart, Ind., at 205. The tackles will be Dale Bueschen of Toledo at 205, and Harold Christler of Wapakoneta at 200. The ends will be lighter, of course, namely, Homer McFadden of Mansfield and Perry Van Hyning of Kent, both 180 pounds. Besides weight, most of the men named here are tall and rangy.

With exception of the fullbacks who can thunder their weight against enemy lines, the backfield, now being drilled along deceptive ways by Joe Hermann, assistant coach will average 150 pounds. Al Marty of Akron is the heaviest of the group at 158; Martin Barber of Springfield, black-headed bullet, is the smallest at 133. The others are close to 150, including: the veteran Jimmy Price, of Massillon, quarterback, and "Red" Maurer, of Dover, his understudy; John Bruckles of Newark, "Tink" Ulrich of Massillon. Sophomores who have been doing exceptionally good work during practice include Robert Krotzer of Gibsonsburg, and Carleton Kazmaier of Maumee. These weigh 168 and 172 respectively, but are not to be considered regulars before they have often experienced participation in college football, although their preparatory exhibitions have been quite enough to recommend them for something stern. Parker Schaefer of Akron, another sophomore back with promise of delivery, weighs 177.

has been held twice daily since the workouts began Sept. 15.

With the possible exception of Howard Kris, of Columbus, halfback, all members of the squad injured in previous scrimmages are expected to take part in the game Saturday.

POSSIBILITIES IN FLAG RACES

As a result of Brooklyn's victory over St. Louis yesterday while the Giants were idle, reducing the Cardinals' lead over New York to half a game, the McGrawmen cannot be counted out of the National league scramble until tomorrow night at the earliest. They can be beaten twice today by the Cards and still stay in the running. And if St. Louis loses to Boston today and the Giants win two, New York will be in the lead tonight.

The Cards won yesterday but one Chicago defeat or one St. Louis victory will definitely eliminate them.

The Yankees can clinch the American league pennant today if they beat Detroit twice and the Athletics lose at Chicago. Neither contender played yesterday. The standings:

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

Club.	Won	Lost	Pct	Play
St. Louis	92	58	.613	4
New York	91	58	.611	5
Chicago	87	62	.584	5

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Club.	Won	Lost	Pct	Play
New York	97	52	.651	5
Philadelphia	95	64	.638	4

It might even be nothing at all or somewhat less by nightfall. The Giants, in fact, can go to the league pace today if they win a pair from the Cards at the Polo grounds and the Cards fail to beat the Braves in Boston. Granting that the latter isn't altogether likely, the Giants will have a chance for a tie if they win two while the Cards are winning one.

Giants Have Five To Play.

The Giants have five games remaining to be played, the Cards only four and it isn't possible for both to win all of them for the somewhat more than nominal reason that they will play each other in the final game Sunday.

If it hasn't already dawned upon you, this game is almost certain to be the great "convincer" of the situation. Just hug that prediction to your heart. The Cards almost declared themselves into the title when they pulled out that fifteen inning decision over the Dodgers on Tuesday, but the odds are even, if you'll pardon my hangnails, that they will have to wait for Sunday's finale before their victory is official or the contenders are sent into a three-game play off for the championship.

They are talking today about the improvement of the Braves against the Cubs, Reds and Pirates and how Hornsby would like to do something for good old Sam Breadon. The best the Braves hope for is one game of the three, with Alexander and Haines ready to go.

Cubs Not So Good on Road.

Granting that the Braves might take a single game, that would bring the Cards back to New York for the last show down with 94 victories and 59 defeats. To get a dead heat by Saturday night, the Giants then would have to take three out of four from the Cards, a not implausible promise in spite of the fact that the Cards have won 11 out of 18 with the Giants this year. The Cards are a backfire on the road, a fact further substantiated by their record in Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia on this trip. Only two of their 11 victories have been scored at the Polo grounds.

However, if the Giants do no better than two out of four, and McKechnie would be glad to concede them that many, they will be only a game back when they start Sunday's frolic. It even can happen that way if the Cards win three straight in Boston and the Giants three of their four with the Cards. The odds, therefore, are about 3 to 1 that Sunday will see the super-climax of all baseball races since 1908.

Yankee Horse Ready to go on British Turf

Billy Barton To Run Again In Classic At Aintree

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 26.—Billy Barton, the noted American leaper, is to race again in the Grand National Steeplechase, England's turf classic at Aintree.

Howard Bruce, local capitalist and owner of the thoroughbred which almost captured the race last March when he dashed in second, believes an American horse can win the trophy. He believes Billy Barton is the best American leaper that can claim the cup.

Britons think differently. They refer to the records. Only once in eighty years has an American horse won the famous race.

Had Bad Luck.

American horse lovers were joined by those in England in acclaiming Billy Barton for his performance. Spectators said he would have won the race then "if." The "if" was his tumble at the last jump when he was yards ahead of the pack and just a half mile or so from the finish.

The spill was considered bad but when Billy leaped to his feet and T. Cullinan, an Irish rider, got in the saddle and continued the race and won second place, that was something, they claimed. Tiphe was down and was the victor—a 100-to-1 shot.

Bruce didn't think his mount had performed badly, considering the short time he was in England prior to the grind, said to be the most severe for thoroughbreds. But he didn't think his action was good.

Sails for England.

He returned to Baltimore a sad man. He had hoped to return with the trophy. At first he decided that Billy Barton had been given his first and last chance of winning the English classic. After January 1, when foreign horse owners were training their mounts for this year's edition of the featured race, Bruce said he started to wonder. He thought of how he would feel if he refused Billy Barton another opportunity. So the decision was made. Billy will make his second try this year.

Cullinan will again be in the saddle. Bruce thinks he handled the mount splendidly last year.

So the horse will be thoroughly acclimated with the climate and hedge fence Bruce has shipped him to that country far in advance. He sailed for England on the steamer Minnewaska on September 8 in charge of Roy Schilling, a Bruce employee. In England the horse will be taken in charge by Sir Aubrey Hastings who trained him for the steeplechase in 1927.

Bishops Show Big Line and "Pony" Backs

Forwards Average 194 lbs.; Ends Will be Small.

DELAWARE, O., Sept. 27.—When Ohio Wesleyan's football team lines up against Marietta for the opening game of the season here, the Battling Bishops will probably present a husky line from tackle to tackle, lightweight ends and a "pony" backfield.

The line which Coach George Gauthier has been using for his first team during practice averages 194 pounds from tackle to tackle and includes only one man less than six feet tall.

Frank Abbey, Ashtabula, and Norman Scribner, Baltimore, Md., senior tackles, are 6 feet 2 inches tall, as is Robert Jones, Delaware, sophomore guard, who seems likely to be the only sophomore starting the Marietta game.

Scribner weighs 235, Abbey 190 and Jones 200 pounds. James Blair, Chillicothe, who weighs 175 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall, seems to have the call for center.

Donald Campbell, Youngstown, veteran guard, will be the smallest man in the center of the Bishop line. Campbell is a stocky powerful player, however, being only 5 feet 9 inches tall and weighing 171 pounds.

Wesleyan's ends will be small but are veterans. Robert Kyle, Cleveland, weighs 160 pounds and John Halliday, Gallipolis, 155 pounds. Halliday is a six-footer, however. He was Ohio Wesleyan's best ground gainer as a halfback last year, but due to a dearth of ends Gauthier has been compelled to shift him temporarily at least, back to end, a position which he played when he won his letter for the first time two years ago.

The Bishops have plenty of backfield material this year with Merwin Breese, Mt. Gildead, quarterback; Charles Wertz, Toledo, and Francis Thomas, Ravenna, halfbacks, and James Glancy, Barbton, fullback, working more regularly with the first team. This backfield averages 184 pounds, with Breese, the quarterback, weighing 173 pounds, being the heaviest man.

Gauthier has a second backfield including three lettermen which appears to be on a par with his other backfield, and which averages 162 pounds. Ervin Carlisle, Columbus, sophomore quarterback; Robert Wald, Columbus, and Ted Franz, Ashland, Ky., halfbacks, and Cy McKinney, Newark, fullback, compose this second varsity backfield.

Seven of the eleven players who seem likely to start against Marietta for Ohio Wesleyan Saturday, are six feet or more tall.

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

Then, ignoring Sally as if she were a travelling-case, she began to conduct a conversation with her daughter. Sally liked the girl, liked her quiet voice and smile, her little attempts to include Sally in the conversation which were ruthlessly ignored by her mother.

"... my dear Mabel, they're nothing. I know perfectly well ... last year in Switzerland, at Davos, they were positively put out of their hotel ... But as for position—I really wish you'd be nicer to him ... Instead, you treat him as if he—well you know what I think about that!"

I know, mother.

The miles flew past. They came into crowded streets at last.

The middle-aged woman said sharply to Sally: "Do you live near her—is this all right?"

"Why—yes, if you're not going any farther. I live on Bellevue Avenue."

"Bellevue—?" She opened her mouth, stared hard, her eyes travelling over Sally's clothes. "Whereabout, may I ask?"

"I'm staying with Mrs. Brooke—Mrs. Ruthven Brooke."

"My dear, why didn't you say so right away?" The middle-aged woman's voice had become honey, her smile overflowed with blandness. "Why didn't you say so at once? Mrs. Brooke? Really! ..." Effusively, she leaned nearer. Under her breath Sally was saying, "Snob, Snob!" and not listening ...

The car turned into Mrs. Brooke's drive.

"Now you really must come and see us. I had no idea ... What a fortunate meeting—so strange, wasn't it? I do hope you weren't hurt. Perhaps I'd better phone my doctor to come and see you. My chauffeur's fault absolutely. Now, do call, won't you? Mrs. Farrington is my name." The car moved softly away.

Jerry! Farrington! So this socially ambitious, unpleasant woman was Jerry's aunt! And that sweet-looking girl was his cousin. Of course she was in love with him. Wouldn't anybody be in love with Jerry, anybody who saw him twice?

She wondered why it was as she went into the house that she felt so suddenly depressed.

CHAPTER 23.

Mark Trelaw was in the library, a book on his knees, reading by one dim light.

Sally smiled. "Good evening."

He looked up with his grave scrutiny, but did not answer.

"What a cranky man he is really!" Sally thought as she hurried up the stairs to her own room. "And why should he be—why should anyone be so gloomy?"

She took o'f her things. Everything looked a wreck, but little mending ... then she remembered. In Newport, you didn't mend things you threw things away and bought more. Moving around her room, she glanced out of the window.

The pale summer darkness had fallen. Under a tree on the soft grass, with scrolled iron chairs and on iron tables, she made out two shadowy figures. Mrs. Brooke—Sally could see the gleams come and go on her tense, worried face, as she drew at a cigarette. She was leaning forward, saying something to a man, who sat farther back in the shadows.

Dan Shevlin! Dan Shevlin was here once more, on another of his mysterious, swift visits. No wonder Mark Trelaw had looked gloomy, no wonder Carlotta was tense. Sally shivered. When Dan Shevlin arrived, the whole house was upset.

Still, she had fulfilled her part of the bargain. She had met Adrian Martin, as he had asked. She went downstairs again, recalling the events of the day.

Jerry would come back, there was no occasion to think he was going away for good. He'd come back—he might be angry at her for having jumped off the train like that, but he'd be curious. Besides he did believe in her, she felt that. She need merely wait, be patient ...

She crossed the soft lawn. Carlotta's voice, Shevlin's voice, came to her ears like pebbles thrown into a little pool of silence.

"What did you do with what you got from Tubby Wells?"

"I've just been telling you," Shevlin's answer was full of weariness and disgust.

"So it's all gone—everything!"

"Takes you some time to get an idea. Shall I say everything twice?"

Carlotta made a short impatient gesture. "Oh, why don't you leave the stock-market alone? Tips—these wonderful tips you always have! Do you realize where this leaves me—how perfectly ghastly things are? I can even pay the servants tomorrow! Oh!"

Sally wished she had not come out, but it was too late now to return. They must have seen her, for all that they talked so frankly. Money—Shevlin was always talking about money. But what was it Carlotta had said about Tubby Wells? Once again Sally had the feeling of being shut out from an important secret.

Shevlin glanced up. "Don't make me tired," he drawled. His eyes fell upon Sally.

"But what am I going to do—it's ghastly! I haven't got a penny to meet things—and the bills are coming in right and left. How much longer do you think I can stand ..."

"Not much. Not much longer than I can stand hearing you complain."

"Oh, you—you."

"Don't be a fool—any more than you can help." Why did Mrs. Brooke let him draw his deliberate insults? She had forgotten everything, scarcely seemed to realize Sally was there. Only Shevlin's eyes peered at her from the shadows. He laughed shortly.

"The little duchess is present. I shouldn't advise you, Carlotta, to use coarse language."

Mrs. Brooke half turned towards Sally. She was breathing unevenly. Sally could see the fingers of one hand moving nervously. She pitied her. "Poor thing! And how I hate him!"

It was like Shevlin to be frank when it was least expected. He said dryly to Sally:

"You have arrived at a great domestic crisis. We happen to be broke, wiped out. Now just how soon do you think you can marry a millionaire? It would be very helpful and accommodating if you'd pick out one to-night."

Under his satiric voice, there was something like a thread of seriousness, something menacing even.

"I'm afraid I don't know any well enough," she said evasively, coolly.

"You don't? ... What about Adrian Martin?"

"I did what you asked me to. I met him."

"Yes, I know, I know. And visited him the same night—alone in his house."

A quick catch of breath in her throat ... how did Shevlin know that, how had he found that out? She had said nothing to Carlotta, nothing to anyone.

He was grinning at her, in his hard way, enjoying her surprise and fear.

"I—I—well, you must know that I only—"

Shevlin yawned. "Why apologize? It was what I wanted you to do. But—to get down to cases—why not marry Martin? Can you?"

"I can't. I wouldn't if I could, but I can't."

"Don't be too sure. A man who has had three wives is probably not incurable. I'd like you to try."

"I—but it's impossible."

Carlotta's hand strayed over, and her fingers clasped Sally's as if for comfort, as if saying: "It's your turn now. Never mind!"

"Well?" Shevlin's inquiry came out of the darkness beneath the trees, like a rasp of command. He was leaning forward across the iron table, studying her in the dimness, not moving.

"I can't."

"Why can't you?"

"I don't like him."

"What has that got to do with it? You like his money, don't you?"

"Dan, leave her alone."

He threw Mrs. Brooke a single glance. Not a word spoken, but it silenced her.

A pause of further silence, while Shevlin scratched a match. "Well, I'm willing to be reasonable," he said at last. "What's the matter with Adrian Martin? Come on, let's get to the bottom of this. Why don't you like him?"

this production on a lavish scale. The entire personnel of a real circus, wintering in California was induced to appear in the regular routine life of the big show and in various specialty acts so that the picture might have an authentic background. Even the real circus tent was used, as well as the special cars in which they carry their animals about. Some of the most thrilling action of the film takes place on a train, when the gorillas escapes from its cage, enters the engine cab and takes possession of the throttle, sending cars in a mad but thrilling funny race down a mountain side.

It Never Pays

Romance in New York

By GILBERT ROGERS

Then, ignoring Sally as if she were a travelling-case, she began to conduct a conversation with her daughter. Sally liked the girl, liked her quiet voice and smile, her little attempts to include Sally in the conversation, which were ruthlessly ignored by her mother.

"... my dear Mabel, they've nothing. I know perfectly well... last year in Switzerland, at Davos, they were positively put out of their hotel... But as for position—I really wish you'd be nicer to him... Instead, you treat him as if he—well you know what I think about that!"

I know, mother.

The miles flew past. They came into crowded streets at last.

The middle-aged woman said sharply to Sally: "Do you live near her—is this all right?"

"Why—yes, it's not going any farther. I live on Bellevue Avenue."

"Bellevue?" She opened her mouth, stared hard, her eyes traveling over Sally's clothes. "Whereabout, may I ask?"

"I'm staying with Mrs. Brooke—Mrs. Ruthven Brooke."

"My dear, why didn't you say so right away?" The middle-aged woman's voice had become honey, her smile overflowed with blandness. "Why didn't you say so at once? Mrs. Brooke? Really?" Effusively, she leaned nearer. Under her breath Sally was saying, "Snob, Snob!" and not listening...

The car turned into Mrs. Brooke's drive.

"Now you really must come and see us. I had no idea... What a fortunate meeting—so strange, wasn't it? I do hope you weren't hurt. Perhaps I'd better phone my doctor to come and see you. My chauffeur's fault absolutely. Now, do call, won't you? Mrs. Farrington is my name." The car moved softly away.

175. Farrington! So this socially ambitious, unpleasant woman was Jerry's aunt! And that sweet-looking girl was his cousin. Of course she was in love with him. Wouldn't anybody be in love with Jerry, anybody who saw him twice?

She wondered why it was as she went into the house that she felt so suddenly depressed.

CHAPTER 23.

Mark Trelaw was in the library, a book on his knees, reading by one dim light.

Sally smiled. "Good evening."

He looked up with his grave scrutiny, but did not answer.

"What a cranky man he is really!" Sally thought as she hurried on up the stairs to her own room. "And why should he be—why should anyone be so gloomy?"

She took off her things. Everything looked a wreck, but little mending... then she remembered. In Newport, you didn't mend things you threw things away and bought more. Moving around her room, she glanced out of the window.

The pale summer darkness had fallen. Under a tree on the soft grass, with scrolled iron chairs and on iron tables, she made out two shadowy figures. Mrs. Brooke—Sally could see the gleams come and go on her tense, worried face, as she drew at a cigarette. She was leaning forward, saying something to a man, who sat farther back in the shadows.

Dan Shevlin! Dan Shevlin was here once more, on another of his mysterious, swift visits. No wonder Mark Trelaw had looked gloomy, no wonder Carlotta was tense. Sally shivered. When Dan Shevlin arrived, the whole house was upset.

Still, she had fulfilled her part of the bargain. She had met Adrian Martin, as he had asked. She went downstairs again, recalling the events of the day.

Jerry would come back, there was no occasion to think he was going away for good. He'd come back—he might be angry at her for having jumped off the train like that, but he'd be curious. Besides he did believe in her, she felt that. She need merely wait, be patient...

She crossed the soft lawn. Carlotta's voice, Shevlin's came to her ears like pebbles thrown into a little pool of silence.

"What did you do with what you got from Tubby Wells?"

"I've just been telling you." Shevlin's answer was full of weariness and disgust.

"So it's all gone—everything!"

"Takes you some time to get an idea. Shall I say everything twice?"

Carlotta made a short impatient gesture. "Oh, why don't you leave the stock-market alone? Tips—these wonderful tips you always have! Do you realize where this leaves me—how perfectly ghastly things are? I can't even pay the servants tomorrow! Oh!"

Sally wished she had not come out, but it was too late now to return. They must have seen her, for all that they talked so frankly. Money—Shevlin was always talking about money. But what was it Carlotta had said about Tubby Wells? Once again Sally had the feeling of being shut out from an important secret.

Shevlin glanced up. "Don't make me tired," he drawled. His eyes fell upon Sally.

"But what am I going to do—it's ghastly! I haven't got a penny to meet things—and the bills are coming in right and left. How much longer do you think I can stand—"

"Not much. Not much longer than I can stand hearing you complain."

"Oh, you—you."

"Don't be a fool—any more than you can help." Why did Mrs. Brooke let him draw his deliberate insults? She had forgotten everything, scarcely seemed to realize Sally was there. Only Shevlin's eyes peered at her from the shadows. He laughed shortly.

"The little duchess is present. I shouldn't advise you, Carlotta, to use coarse language."

Mrs. Brooke half turned towards Sally. She was breathing unevenly. Sally could see the fingers of one hand moving nervously. She pitied her. "Poor thing! And how I hate him!"

It was like Shevlin to be frank when it was least expected. He said dryly to Sally:

"You have arrived at a great domestic crisis. We happen to be broke, wiped out. Now just how soon do you think you can marry a millionaire? It would be very helpful and accommodating if you'd pick out one one-night."

Under his satiric voice, there was something like a thread of seriousness, something menacing even.

"I'm afraid I don't know any well enough," she said evasively, coolly.

"You don't?... What about Adrian Martin?"

"I did what you asked me to. I met him."

"Yes, I know, I know. And visited him the same night—alone in his house."

A quick catch of breath in her throat... how did Shevlin know that, how had he found that out? She had said nothing to Carlotta, nothing to anyone.

He was grinning at her, in his hard way, enjoying her surprise and fear.

"I—I—well, you must know that I only—"

Shevlin yawned. "Why apologize? It was what I wanted you to do. But—to get down to cases—why not marry Martin? Can you?"

"I can't. I wouldn't if I could, but I can't."

"Don't be too sure. A man who has had three wives probably not incurable. I'd like you to try."

"I—but it's impossible."

Carlotta's hand strayed over, and her fingers clasped Sally's as if for comfort, as it saying: "It's your turn now. Never mind!"

"Well?" Shevlin's inquiry came out of the darkness beneath the trees, like a rasp of command. He was leaning forward across the iron table, studying her in the dimness, not moving.

"I can't."

"Why can't you?"

"I don't like him."

"What has that got to do with it? You like his money, don't you?"

"Don't leave her alone."

He threw Mrs. Brooke a single glance. Not a word spoken, but it silenced her.

A pause of further silence, while Shevlin scratched a match. "Well, I'm willing to be reasonable," he said at last. "What's the matter with Adrian Martin? Come on, let's get to the bottom of this. Why don't you like him?"

PENNSY CHIEFS INSPECT ROAD

Seek Best Kept Section of Central Region.

In a special track inspection train, General Manager C. I. Leiper, Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way J. B. Baker, general superintendents and superintendents of the Central region, Pennsylvania railroad, are riding the freight and passenger tracks of the region to determine the best sections of track from the standpoint of up-keep. This is the annual fall inspection and the results will determine what supervisors, section and gang foremen and trackmen are entitled to cash prizes. The company awards several thousand dollars every fall to trackmen.

Special Train.

The special is made up of business cars and an equipped track inspection car. The feature of this is a water gauge, placed in the middle of the car, on the floor, which is under constant observation while the train is running. Prizes Offered.

The prizes offered for the best subdivisions and sections of track range from $300, known as the klondyke prize, to $500, $100, $50 and $25 prizes. The $300 prize always is awarded a supervisor of tracks on the Pittsburgh division for the best maintained subdivision, this being a division of from four to six running tracks, and the most difficult to maintain, by reason of the mountainous right of way.
